

Samish Bay Single Malt Whiskey

40%

Made in Washington State with Washington barley in a copper pot still, and aged "over a year" in new, charred, 10 gallon oak barrels. Good color; nose is frisky and young, with fresh oak and big pear aromas, and a hot feel. Hot and direct in the mouth: grainy, some of that pear, and a somewhat bland but appealing cereal sweetness. Finish is more of the same, with a flick of heat at the end.
