The nose is fascinating, as if dust is cohering into form, and fruity form at that. When it emerges there's baked banana, fruitcake, citrus peels, passion fruit, mango, mace flower, and nutmeg. A mossy edge anchors it to earth. Even livelier with water, this is a superbly balanced, mature whisky.

The palate is pure, with big retronasal impact of the spice. Layered and long, it's at its best neat; you need the intensity to amplify all the complexity. Superb.
