

Canadian Club
Chronicles Issue No. 1
Water of Windsor 41
year old

45%

Recently, a new “oldest Canadian whisky ever,” appears every year.

In 2018, the honor goes to

Canadian Club. Cedar lumber, fresh apricots, hints of bonfire, and sweet applewood on the nose. On the palate it's butter tarts with vanilla, waves of pepper, pears, peaches, bonfire notes, and hints of pipe tobacco. Crisp, clean, and slightly bigger than Canadian Club

40 year old, the 41 is woodsy, silky, and mouth filling. (2,472 bottles for U.S.)
