

Gordon & MacPhail
(distilled at Glen Grant)

1966, 41 year old, 49.4%

There have been a lot of old, heavily sherried, independently bottled Glen Grant whiskies on the market over the past several years. This one appears to be from a refill sherry cask, as its influence is more subtle. It has aged well, showing no excessive oak, but plenty of fruit (summer fruits, dried citrus, stewed fruits, tangerine, golden raisin), balanced by polished oak, grape skin, and subtle dark chocolate. Distinctively pleasing. Don't add too much water, though, as it breaks down.

(A Kensington Wine Market exclusive.) $500 (CAD)
